BUSHIDO IS DEAD "Moral Considerations Need Not Exist"

BY SIM KHIN LIN

If human action and conduct proceed from moral values, then we can say that Bushido, the unwritten moral code of the Samurai, is no longer the moving spirit of Japan. Morality and honour can no longer quicken the hearts of the Japanese people, as they did the Samurai of feudalistic Japan. The emphasis on ethical emotion, which found expression in a punctilious code of honour, has to-day degenerated into mere jingoistic militarism.

The Japan after the Manchurian Incident of 1932, though still a victor, is no longer the Japan which emerged the victor of the Sino-Japanese War of 1895 and the Russo-Japanese War. After the Russo-Japanese War, Japan rose in national prestige and was known to the world as the successful defender of national honour, but the Japan which established the puppet state of "Manchukuo" is to-day branded in the eyes of nations as a violator of promises employing subterfuges even to the detriment of national honour.

Her wanton aggression of North China and her callous treatment of non-combatants show her plainly to the world as a nation devoid of considerations of morality in the grip of uncontrolled militarism.

Professor Nitobe who wrote in 1899, "With us, the ethic formally abolishing feudalism in 1870 was the signal to toll the knell of Bushido," and "The State built upon the rock of Honour and fortified by the same is fast falling into the hands of quibbling lawyers and gibbering politicians with logic-chopping engines of war," was unhappily only too true in his prediction. The makers of modern Japan, who lifted their country from the stagnation of feudalism, and set it along the road of industrialism, are, with the exception of the aged Prince Saloni, all dead.

ANOTHER GENERATION

After them has come another generation of Japanese born amidst the utilitarianism of commercial and industrial progress stimulated by the conditions of the Great War. The guns of Commodore Perry in the Summer of 1853 had taught the ruling class of Japan that national honour could only be protected by the power of industrialism. Animated by the lofty precepts of Bushido, they successfully achieved the transition from feudalism to industrialism, and gained the respect of the world as a World Power. They were the last links of old Japan and the new, and were men who knew no other moral teachings than the precepts of knight-hood.

REFUSAL OF JAPAN TO PARTICIPATE AT BRUSSELS REGRETTED

LUCID SPEECH BY UNITED STATES' DELEGATE

FAR EAST HOSTILITIES IS SERIOUS CONCERN OF WORLD

BRUSSELS, NOVEMBER 3.

THE MARBLE HALL OF THE OLD PALACE OF THE DUKE OF ORANGE MADE AN ADMIRABLE SETTING FOR THE NINE-POWER CONFERENCE WHICH OPENED AT 11.10 A.M. WITH A SPEECH BY M. SPAAK, ACTING BELGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER WHO REVIEWED THE CIRCUMSTANCES IN WHICH THE CONFERENCE HAD BEEN CONVENED. HUGE PAINTINGS OF FLEMISH MASTERS LOOKED DOWN ON THE LARGE HAIR COVERED TABLE SURROUNDED BY RED FLUSH CHAIRS. NINETEEN DELEGATIONS ARE ATTENDING THE CONFERENCE. ON M. SPAAK'S SUGGESTION IT WAS AGREED THAT THE CONFERENCE HOLD ITS PLenary SESSIONS IN PUBLIC AND COMMITTEE MEETINGS IN PRIVATE.

MR. NORMAN DAVIS (UNITED STATES DELEGATE), MR. ANTHONY EDEN (BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY), AND M. DELBOS (FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER), ARE EXPECTED TO SPEAK THIS MORNING, AND SIGNOR GRANDI (ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO LONDON), AND DR. WELLINGTON KOO (CHINESE AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE), THIS AFTERNOON.

M. SPAAK WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE CONFERENCE.—REUTER.

The purpose of the Conference is to discuss possibilities of bringing about a peaceful settlement of the conflict and to offer its services if there is the slightest prospect of a mediation. It is anticipated that following the opening speeches a Sub-Committee will be appointed to explore these possibilities.—British Wireless.

In his opening speech, M. Spaak said that in calling the Conference the Belgian Government had no other object than to collaborate in the work for peace. The world was already so troubled by the tragedy in Spain and saw its uneasiness increased by the horrible war now proceeding in the Far East. Every man was asking if the far flung centres of fire were not the forerunners of a universal cataclysm beside which the horrors of 1914 would be child's play.

Continuing, the Belgian Foreign Minister said that the refusal by Germany and Japan to participate in the Conference was regrettable for the progress of their work. Citing the text of the German refusal, M. Spaak said he hoped the refusal was not absolute but inspired by certain special circumstances which could be modified. He added that Germany's reply was a long and extremely important document which would be distributed to the delegates.

Abstention of Japan, said M. Spaak, put the Conference to very real difficulty but further discussion might dissipate certain misunderstandings.

NOT A TRIBUNAL

"The Conference must not consider itself as a sort of international tribunal before which Japan should be summoned to appear to explain her actions in conditions incompatible to her dignity and honour. Our object is to end the war if possible and re-establish peace and law," declared M. Spaak.

MR. DAVIS SPEAKS

The United States delegate, Mr. Norman Davis, initiating the general discussion said the problems underlying Sino-Japanese relations must be solved on a basis fair and acceptable to each party.

The longer the hostilities lasted the more difficult it would be for a constructive solution. The United States came to the Conference with no commitments except those under the Treaty provisions and principles which the United States Government had repeatedly and emphatically affirmed. The United States Government was prepared to share in common efforts to devise within the scope of these Treaty provisions and principles a means of finding a pacific solution which would provide for ending the hostilities in the Far East and restoration of peace in that area. COMBATTING CHOLERA Government Policy Criticised

Recently Hong Kong was in the grip of one of the most serious cholera epidemics that has ever visited this colony. The epidemic took toll of many hundreds of lives and for months caused considerable apprehension among the million-inhabitants of this colony, the European community in particular.

For a long time danger of infection was a very real thing to every Hong Kong resident, and the Government reaction to this fear was contained in the number of official statements and communications detailing instructions as to the care to be exercised in order to prevent infection. Early in the epidemic it was found that the stock of anti-cholera vaccine available in the colony was far too small to deal with an epidemic of the proportions of that with which the Medical Department were confronted and which daily showed every sign of growing worse. "Cables" were, therefore, sent post haste to Shanghai, Bangkok and even the Netherlands Indies and Singapore for supplies of vaccine.

A quantity was quickly received from Shanghai and the Government through the press made it known that this supply was sufficient for all the purposes of the epidemic. Not long after, however, there was again a great outcry for vaccine and the cables buzzed with urgent requests to Singapore and Bangkok. Meanwhile, the disease was spreading dangerously in the colony. Scores were dying every day and the medical and health authorities were hard put to it to cope with the situation.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS

It is not our purpose in this article to castigate the Government for a state of affairs which at one time was scandalous, although that would be an easy though unpleasant task. We do not, for instance, wish at this stage to inquire of the Government why more efficient arrangements were not made for the conveyance of cholera patients from Kowloon to Hong Kong, or why arrangements were not made for the treatment of the cholera cases occurring in on the mainland in Kowloon itself. The public remembers with no little disgust, the conditions which prevailed at the ferries when cholera patients were being conveyed across the harbour. Many were carried up and down from the Star Ferry to the Yau Ma Tei Ferry and back again and the process was repeated over and over again in more than one instance, and this in the case of patients suffering from a disease the main essential for the successful treatment of which is the time factor.

A cholera patient is under the influence of a very highly toxic infection and is rapidly being dehydrated, and medical experts tell us that in order to eliminate the toxic matter and to make good the loss of the tissue through modern methods, the patient must be frequently and voluminously infused with saline solution. Thus, any undue delay in the treatment places the patient at a disadvantage, with a grave risk of death, before the patient has had a fair chance of obtaining the benefits which modern medical science provides.

Legal Aspect Of Aerial Warfare

Mr. J. L. Brierly, O.B.E., Professor of International Law, Oxford, was the speaker in the "World Affairs" series, broadcast from Daventry last night, his subject being the "Legal Aspect of Aerial Bombardments."

Opening his very interesting talk, Prof. Brierly said that people often wondered whether the question of law entered into aerial bombardments at all for the whole thing was so inhuman. He believed that the law had some restraining influence on these bombardments, for it was not quite true that all and sundry regarded the rules of war as mere scraps of paper. This influence may break if the war lasted too long, but in the early stages, at any rate, neither side in any war was willing to break rules, not wanting to be accused the first offender.

Dealing with the legal aspect of aerial warfare, the speaker said that it was so new a problem that no one ventured to quote it with any measure of confidence. The first serious attempt to draw up any rules governing this aspect of warfare was made at The Hague in 1923 but although a series of rules was drawn up, no state accepted these rules, the gist of which was that aerial bombardment for the purpose of terrorising the civilian population is prohibited and that it is only legitimate when it is designed to destroy any military objects, such as troops, ammunition depots and lines of communication.

Elaborating on this, Prof. Brierly said that the governing principle was that suffering which was necessary—that is necessary to achieve victory—may be inflicted, but suffering that was unnecessary.

HOSTILITIES IN NORTH CHINA

Reach Critical Stage

Peking, Nov. 3.

Hostilities in North China have reached a critical stage. After fighting all the way, over forty miles of precipitous terrain, the Japanese force from Hoped emerged at the Central Shanai plain having captured Shouyang, on the railway line thirty-three miles to the east of Taiyuanfu, yesterday afternoon. The country ahead lacks natural defences and the expected Japanese advance can now be expedited.

Meanwhile the Japanese announce that the Chinese troops which have been holding out at the Hsinking Hills to the north of Taiyuanfu for three weeks are now in full retreat to the south following the fierce Japanese attack last night.—Reuter.

MEIJI ANNIVERSARY

Shanghai, Nov. 3.

The Japanese Army in Shanghai observed the anniversary of the birth of the late Emperor Meiji by firing a salute of one hundred and one live shells into the Chinese lines. The salute formed part of a bombardment on which Japanese gunners were busy all night long and this morning. The position at the front is unchanged and drizzling rain continues.—Reuter.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

COMBATting CHOLERA

What we are mostly concerned with is the future and if as a result of what we write such disgraceful incidents as happened during the recent epidemic were to be obviated our labour will not have been in vain. For that reason we must differ from the then Hon. The Colonial Secretary in his extraordinary answer vouchsafed to the Hon. Dr. Li Shu Fan at the recent meeting of the Legislative Council. The then Colonial Secretary rejected the Hon. Dr. Li Shu Fan's plea for storage of an adequate stock of vaccine in the following words: "As matters stand there is little to be gained by storing up vast quantities of vaccine which will only last two years so long as supplies can be obtained without difficulty from elsewhere."

EXTRAORDINARY STATEMENT

In the light of Hong Kong's experience during the epidemic just concluded that statement is extraordinary. The Colonial Secretary admits that cholera is not endemic in Hong Kong and that the people are, therefore, more susceptible to the disease than they would be if they had had the chance of acquiring partial immunity. The Hon. gentleman also admits that the high death rate was due to the poor physical condition and under-nourishment of most of the sufferers. In other words, it is realised by officialdom in Hong Kong that this colony's notoriously under-fed and under-nourished masses are an easy prey to epidemics. If that be so, then it is all the more reason why strict precautions should be taken to see that every conceivable device known to medical science within the reach of the colony's purse should be made available at a moment's notice in the event of the outbreak of an epidemic, especially a cholera epidemic. The money invested in a stock of vaccine sufficient for dealing with a major epidemic would never be grudged by the public.

It seems extraordinary that the then Colonial Secretary should make the assertion that there is "little to be gained" by storing up such a stock without consulting the public on the point. After all, it is public money that will pay for it. From a humanitarian standpoint alone, we submit, such a mercenary excuse as advanced by the official concerned is unworthy of the Government of this colony.

BEACH THEFT

One of a gang who had been operating on the beach at Big Wave Bay, Lam Ho, 19, of Shek-O, was given one month's hard labour by Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday when he admitted stealing a ladies' hand-bag containing $22, five shillings and various articles, and a watch.

The complainants were Miss Wikeley and Mr. Mackie respectively and the thefts had been committed on August 31 and October 21.

Inspector A. Wright prosecuted and said defendant had admitted five other similar larcenies but the complainants could not be traced. Regarding the present charge another man had a little while ago been sentenced for receiving the articles mentioned.

DEATH OF MRS. ANN SHEWAN

The death of Mrs. Ann Shewan occurred at the French Hospital yesterday morning. Born in the Isle of Wight, deceased had been in the Far East since 1892.

Formerly head of Fairall Fashions, a thriving Hong Kong business, Mrs. Shewan retired some years ago, when she married the late Mr. William Shewan, twin brother of Mr. Robert Shewan of Messrs. Shewan, Tomes and Company. Her husband died ten years ago, and since then she had been living quietly at North Point.

A keen gardener, deceased was also interested in different charities, being a member of the Mother's Union of the St. John's Cathedral.

Mrs. Shewan had numerous friends in Hong Kong, and has relatives in England and in Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral is being held to-day and will pass the Monument at 5 p.m.

A MATTER OF FACT, NOT LAW

C.N.A.C. Appeal Succeeds

Declaring that the whole case was not a matter of law but a matter of fact, and holding that the law implied the intent but had nothing to do with the case, Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., who appeared for the China National Aviation Corporation in the appeal against the order of the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, attaching an aeroplane belonging to the appellant firm in connection with an alleged indebtedness of $65,253.04, to the effect that the order be reversed and rescinded, obtained permission with costs.

The appeal was heard by the Full Court of Appeal comprising the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, and Mr. Justice J. A. Fraser, at the Supreme Court yesterday.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., together with Mr. George She, appeared for appellant firm, whilst the Texas Company (respondents) was represented by the Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jnr.

Opening the appeal, Mr. Potter outlined the facts and referred to affidavits and affirmations filed by the parties, after which he quoted authorities in support of his case.

Continuing, Counsel claimed that the whole case was not a matter of law but a matter of fact, pointing out that the law implied the intent but had nothing to do with the case.

In order to save lengthy argument and various quotations of law, the Hon. Mr. D'Almada at this stage, intimated to the Court that he agreed with Mr. Potter that the decision rendered by the Chief Justice was made according to law and not to fact.

After dealing with the judgment rendered, Mr. Potter submitted that the appeal should be allowed. On the request of the Hon. Mr. D'Almada a short adjournment was granted him to enable him to confer with his clients.

On the resumption of the Court, after a 25 minutes' recess Mr. D'Almada said:

"May it please your Lordships, during the adjournment I have had occasion to consult my clients in connection with this case and my views are that I cannot support my Lord, the Chief Justice, in his findings."

Counsel continuing, said that it was perfectly genuine to obtain payment of the debt due, particularly as repeated demands were made and promises to pay were not fulfilled. He agreed that the only procedure to set aside the judgment was the present one and he felt he could not argue the case on the question of fact and therefore agreed with his learned friend, Mr. Potter.

Mr. Justice Lindsell: It follows then, of course, that this appeal is allowed with costs and I may add that both my brother, Mr. Justice Fraser, and I feel very strongly that there was great substance in the arguments addressed to us by Mr. Potter.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY SEQUEL

Au Chu and Shum Tak-lin, the latter a woman, were brought before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday for the commencement of committal proceedings against them on a charge of highway robbery.

Detective Sub-Inspector W. N. Darkin, prosecuting, said the defendants had taken complainant, Lam Wo-yuk, 27, married woman residing in Hollywood Road, in a car to Kennedy Road on October 14. There first defendant threatened her with a knife and had robbed her of $30 Hong Kong currency, a deposit receipt for $450 on the Wing On Bank, $5 Canton money and a few dollars in Hong Kong and Canton subsidiary coins.

After evidence corroborating the statements made by the prosecution had been given by complainant and two other witnesses, the case was remanded till to-day.

HUGE FINE FOR OPIUM POSSESSION

A fine of $5,000 or six months' hard labour, was inflicted on Leung Tong, 25, boatman, when he pleaded guilty before Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday to possession of prepared opium on the s.s. 'Kin Shan' at Wing Lok Street wharf, on November 2. Senior Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmlt prosecuted.

SINCERE CASE RECALLED

AU HING PAYS PENALTY

Murder Of David Chan See

An enquiry was held at the Central Magistracy yesterday into the death of Au Hing, prisoner No. 683. Mr. R. Edwards, Second Police Magistrate, sat as Coroner and was assisted by a jury comprising Messrs. L. Goldman (foreman) Ho Man-lam and M.Y.T.W. Flenness.

Chief Warder H. Barrett, Hong Kong Prison, said that at 5.02 a.m. yesterday deceased was executed in accordance with the law. At 10 a.m. he identified the body at the prison Mortuary as that of Au Hing, condemned prisoner No. 683.

Dr. G. Ingram Shaw said he carried out a post mortem examination on the deceased at 11.30 a.m. and found that death was due to shock and dislocation of the first and second vertebrae as a result of judicial hanging.

The jury returned a verdict of death by judicial hanging in accordance with law.

The execution of Au Hing brings to a close a dramatic criminal episode rivalling in public interest the famous Cheng Kwok-yau case. When, last month, Au Hing was sentenced to death for the murder of Mr. David Chan See, managing director of the Sincere Company, he had been out of prison for only a few weeks after serving a sentence of fifteen years for a brutal attack on a European lady. For the crime for which he has paid the Supreme penalty he was paid $25 to kill a man who was pointed out to him by his employers, a man whom he did not know and against whom he had no grudge.

Au Hing was defended by Mr. D. J. N. Anderson at the Criminal Sessions.

POLICE REPORTS

A 17-year-old girl, Yuen Wah, attempted to commit suicide on Tuesday by jumping from the third floor of No. 85 Third Street into the backyard, according to a Police report. She was taken to the Queen Mary Hospital with her right leg fractured and other injuries.

A report was made to the Police by Capt. Mackintosh Walker, of the Seaforth Highlanders, of the loss of a basket containing a quantity of cricket kit, flannels, etc. from his car outside the Hong Kong Club on Monday.

The Rev. W. MacDonagh reported to the Police that while walking in Queen's Road Central, near the China Emporium, on Tuesday, he lost or had stolen from him a leather pocket book containing money and valuables to the value of $60.

Lau Wong-wai, 10, a victim of the Kowloon City fire of Monday night, died yesterday as a result of the terrible burns he received. He is actually the second victim. On Tuesday it was reported that two were dead, but that was incorrect. It is now ascertained. The first victim was also a boy of ten.

KILLED INSTANTLY

A child was killed and a woman, Li See-koo, 53, seriously injured at Queen's Road West, near Possession Street, yesterday morning, as a result of being knocked down by Austin Seven, No. 2840, driven by Mr. John Poon.

Enquiries from the Police elicited the information that the driver was proceeding from east to west about 9.20 a.m., when the woman suddenly ran across the road from left to right with the child in her right arm. He immediately swerved and sounded the horn twice, but the woman, her view apparently obstructed by the child, continued running and was knocked down by the left head lamp of the car.

The child was killed instantaneously, while the woman received injuries to the head and body. She was taken to the Queen Mary Hospital where she is receiving treatment.

BANISHED RETURNS

"I came down here because my house in the country had been destroyed by the Japanese and I wanted to get some money from my aunt," said Tsui Shu-po, banished, when he was brought before Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday. He was given nine months' hard labour.

STAPLES SURPRISES

THREE COURSE MENU

Fruit Hors d'œuvre—Veal and Ham Jelly—
Tomato Salad—Vanilla Ice Cream—Coffee.

FRUIT HORS D'ŒUVRE

Slices of pineapple, lettuce, leaves, lemon juice, bananas, chopped walnuts, mayonnaise.
Line individual plates with shredded lettuce. Dip a slice of pineapple (per person) in nuts. Arrange in centre of lettuce. Peel and cut bananas in two crosswise, allowing half a banana per person. Dip in lemon juice. Plant one upright in centre of each pineapple slice. Serve with a bowl of bottle of mayonnaise in a separate bowl or bottle in case someone doesn't care for mayonnaise with fruit.

VEAL AND HAM JELLY

1 lb. veal, salt and black pepper, 1 teaspoonful lemon juice, 2 gammon rashers, water, 1 teaspoonful minced parsley.
Cut veal into inch squares. Remove rind from gammon. Mince gammon. Arrange veal and gammon in a pie-dish. Sprinkle with parsley and lemon juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Cover. Bake in a slow oven for two hours. Remove from oven. Uncover, and cover with a net cover till set and chilled.

If any stock, dilute it with equal quantity of water and substitute it for the water. When pie is cooked, always fill dish up with water or stock. Sometimes meat cube used when no stock. It makes the jelly richer.

TOMATO SALAD

Cover small tomatoes with boiling water. Stand for a minute. Peel, as skins are tender. (This can be done the night before.) Leave them to cool. Slice into salad bowl. Sprinkle with minced onion and parsley to taste. Moistened with French dressing.

Make this fresh every week, and keep it in a corked bottle. Shake it before using. If liked, arrange tomatoes on a bed of shredded lettuce, or garnish with sprigs of watercress.

Note—Serve vanilla ice cream with canned strawberries, cream, and any jam sandwich, or with sponge fingers put together with jam and whipped cream, or with vanilla wafers.

HOME-MADE SAUCES AND CHUTNEYS CAN GIVE NEW INTEREST TO SIMPLEST DISHES

Apple and tomato chutney is homely and good, and, best of all, even housewives in comparatively urban areas are often able to collect both fruits in their own gardens. Quantities are: 3 lb tomatoes, 3 lb apples, 3 lb small onions, 4 oz mustard, 1 lb sugar, two green peppers, two quarts vinegar, 1 lb sultanas, one tablespoonful of salt, a teaspoonful each of cayenne and of white pepper. Peel apples and onions, skin tomatoes, cut up, boil till soft with sultanas, green peppers and one quart and a half of vinegar. Mix mustard with remainder of vinegar, add sugar, salt and pepper; add to mixture, and boil all together until chutney begins to set. Pour into jars and fasten down.

Herbs, aromatic spices and seasonings are now the particular interest of the housewife, who, after her great summer jam-making campaign, is turning her attention to the piquant chutneys and sauces that will add interest to winter cookery.

While there are many appetising varieties on the market that have an important part in home catering, there is also a demand for home-made preserves of this type, in which the enterprising housewife can introduce new blends of fruit and vegetable, often called from her own garden.

One of the attractions of these chutneys and sauces is that they can be made so inexpensively.

Ways of making use of the green tomato crop, windfall fruit and of the mint bed are suggested.

MINT CHUTNEY

Take 1 lb mint stripped from the stalks, 1 lb raisins, 1 lb almonds, 2 oz sugar, 2 oz salt, 1 lb currants, 1 pt. vinegar, 1 oz cayenne.

Chop mint and almonds finely. Stone raisins and chop. Boil vinegar with the other ingredients and put into a jar. Put in mint, almonds and raisins, well mixed together, and let stand for all steam to evaporate. Bottle for use.

Chutneys that are equally good with hot and cold meats are included in the following recipes.

APPLE CHUTNEY

Wanted: 3 lb apples, 1 lb onions, 3 oz garlic, 3 lb moist brown sugar, 2 lb chopped raisins, 2 oz curry powder, 2 oz mustard, 2 teaspoonfuls mixed spice, 2 pt. vinegar. Put apples, onions, raisins and garlic through the mincer and mix altogether. Boil for 40 minutes.

ROUGH AND READY CHUTNEY
Whatever is in excess use—apples, green tomatoes, hard rhubarb, pears, not too ripe, being careful, of course, that they are quite sound.

Peel apples and pears and put through mincer—the coarsest cutter—also the onions. To 4 lb fruit, either one kind or mixed, add 3 lb onions. Cover with vinegar and boil till cooked.

Add 1 lb sugar and 1 lb raisins chopped, large spoonful salt. When boiling add 2 large spoonfuls curry powder, keeping well stirred. Bottle. When cold tie down with greaseproof paper.

Advisable sometimes to add a few bay leaves, a very little finely chopped garlic, or a small tin of tomato purée.

INDIAN CHUTNEY

A good way of using green tomatoes is as follows:

Take 1 lb green tomatoes, 1 lb apples, 1 lb raisins, 1 small onion, 1 lb sweet almonds, 1 lb brown sugar, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful black pepper, 1 teaspoonful ginger, 1 teaspoonful French mustard, 1 tablespoonful Indian curry powder, 1 pint white vinegar. Peel tomatoes, apples and onions. Stone raisins, and put all these through the mincer. Add the rest of the ingredients. Let stand for six hours, then boil very gently for 3 hours, and bottle.

REAL YORKSHIRE SAUCE

This genuine Yorkshire sauce is splendid with all cold meats and will keep for a lengthy period.

The ingredients needed for making are 1 oz pickling spice, 1 packet, 1 lb raisins, 1 lb brown sugar, 1 lb sweet almonds, 1 lb French mustard, 1 lb Demerara sugar. Mix to a paste with cold vinegar.

Boil the pickling spice in a pint of water for five minutes. Strain water to remove spice and pour over the paste. Put in a pan with a pint of good vinegar and stir till thick.

Pour into bottles and store in cool, dry place.

A good piquant sauce suitable for serving with either fish or meat is Cream of Marrow. To four medium vegetable marrow, allow a quart of vinegar, 12 shallots, 1 lb sugar, 1 oz of turmeric, four chillies, a little ground ginger, 4 oz mustard and 4 oz of finely grated Parmesan cheese. Cut peeled marrow into small cubes, and pour with salt. Let stand over-night. Boil the vinegar with sugar, shallots, turmeric and chillies for a quarter of an hour. Wash marrow free of salt and add to vinegar, boiling all till tender. Now add ginger and the mustard, which should be mixed with vinegar and the cheese. Sieve carefully, and bottle in wide-necked containers.

TOMATO SAUCE

Ingredients: 1 pint tomato puree, 1 pint best malt vinegar, 1 pint water, one whole garlic separated into cloves, 1 lb soft brown sugar, one tablespoonful salt, half teaspoonful cayenne, half teaspoonful powdered cloves, one teaspoonful black pepper, one teaspoonful white pepper, six bay leaves, one teaspoonful nutmeg.

Method: Boil all together for 10 minutes after coming to the boil. Strain through colander and bottle securely when cold.

PINEAPPLE RELISH

Here is a delicious sauce for all cold meats. When in season. Use small ripe pines.

Use a large breakfast-cup for measuring ingredients. Grate pineapples on a coarse grater, and mix in a preserving pan with half a cupful of Demerara sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, quarter of a teaspoonful each of salt and ground cloves, half a cupful of best vinegar.

Mix all well together and cook slowly till thick and a nice amber colour. Bottle and cork well till required.

CHILLI SAUCE

This recipe has been used in a certain family for a hundred years, and is delicious. Take eight green peppers, five onions, 4 lb ripe tomatoes, one cupful grated horse-radish, five tablespoonfuls brown sugar, three tablespoonfuls salt, eight cupfuls vinegar.

Chop peppers and onions small. Skin tomatoes by dropping in hot water. Mix all together and boil hours. Bottle and seal while hot.

Nerves were in a Terrible Way — 'ASPRO' a Surprise

1 Garden Street, Middle Brighton, S.S.
15/12/32
Dear Sirs,
Last week I had 18 teeth out, and not being well my nerves were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I have a few more facts where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.
Yours faithfully,

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Despite the fact that a world epidemic of infantile paralysis is raging in Chicago, Toronto, Melbourne, and Copenhagen the British Health authorities are unperturbed.

An official of the Ministry of Health stated recently that the number of cases at present reported in Britain has been perfectly normal, although in recent weeks there has been a slight increase in the numbers notified.

This is a normal rise. There is no indication so far of an outbreak in this country. The feeling in the Ministry of Health is that there is very definitely no cause for alarm.

Over 100 cases were reported in England during August and during the week ended September 4, 35 cases were reported, but the cases were scattered singly throughout the country in places far apart.

It was stated in one London paper that if a large number of cases broke out it might be necessary to give school-children gauze masks to prevent infection.

An official of the London County Council stated that this was feasible, but applicable to all infectious diseases, not only to infantile paralysis.

Asked whether schools would be closed should the cases increase greatly he replied that the policy of the London County Council was not to close schools if possible; rather to keep control of the children in schools.

But special cases might arise and special circumstances. He added that the number of cases at present was causing no concern and there was no need for alarm whatever.

TITANIC SURVIVOR PASSES MR. BRUCE ISMAY

Allegations which were made, and proved unfounded, against two men after the Titanic disaster are recalled by the death, announced from his home in Hill-street, Mayfair, of Mr. Bruce Ismay, the shipowner, states the "Evening Standard." He was 74.

Mr. Ismay, who succeeded his father to the control of the White Star Line, was on board the Titanic when she was sunk by collision with an iceberg in April 1912. Fifteen hundred persons perished.

Another passenger was Sir Cosmo Duff Gordon, who died on April 20, 1931.

Lord Mersey conducted an official inquiry into the loss of the Titanic, and his report exonerated both Mr. Ismay and Sir Cosmo Duff Gordon.

The Mersey Commission also found that there was no foundation for the suggestion, also current at the time, that third-class passengers had been unfairly treated.

MR. ISMAY'S EVIDENCE
At the inquiry Mr. Ismay stated that he was in the position of an ordinary passenger and exercised no influence or control of any sort over the captain. He described how he helped women and children into a boat until there was not a woman, or child visible on deck.

In the following year Mr. Ismay retired from the presidency of the International Mercantile Marine Company, and in 1915 resigned his position as a director of the company.

In 1919 he gave £25,000 to inaugurate a national mercantile marine fund as a token of his admiration for the war service of British merchantmen.

Mr. Ismay was at one time chairman of the Asiatic Steam Navigation Company and a director of the L.M.S. Railway, as well as other companies.

20-STONE SOLDIER Double Rations, Special Uniform

The Estonian Army claims to have in its ranks the heaviest soldier in the world.

He is Private Leonard Kask, aged 21, who weighs 20 stone, 6½ lbs. When he was drafted to the Narva Artillery there were no trousers, tunic or equipment to fit him. He had to remain in barracks until a special uniform and boots had been made for him.

By special orders Kask has been given double rations. He declares, however, that this does not satisfy his appetite.

Kask has prodigious strength. He can lift as much as four men put together, and his comrades claim that he could if necessary bring a field gun into position unaided by horses or men.

THE DUKE AND THE "ROBOT"

The Duke of Kent stood before a "mechanical robot" recently and asked, "What is the colour of my waistcoat?" The robot replied "Your Royal Highness is not wearing one!" Having joined in the general laughter which greeted this sally, the Duke then asked the colour of his tie, and back came the accurate response, "Blue tie, with red spots."

This incident occurred during the Duke's half-hour tour of the North London Exhibition, at Alexandra Park, where he visited stands in connection with hospitals, the British Legion, the Ministry of Agriculture, New Zealand, and Southern Rhodesia. His main interest was in the housing exhibits, and he closely examined the appliances for the modern home.

HITTITE ORIGIN CLAIMED

—Professor's Theory

The second history congress, held in Constantinople, was attended by a great number of foreign scholars. Their contributions mainly referred to the early history of Anatolia, as well as to the peoples considered by Turkish historical research as connected with the Turkish race.

Particular importance was paid to the thesis submitted by Professor Pittard, of Geneva, as coinciding with the point of view of the Turkish Society for Historical Research.

Professor Pittard is concerned with the origin of the brachycephalic type appearing in Europe in the course of the mesolithic period, a question which derives its importance from that type having been instrumental in carrying elements of civilisation to Europe, which otherwise would have remained at the palaeolithic stage, without any knowledge either of animal domestication or of agriculture.

In fact, he declared, nowhere except in the Near East and in the region extending as far as Afghanistan were cereals to be found growing in the original wild state. The same could also be said of domestic animals.

A close study of the Hittites showed those forms of civilisation to have been well known to them, and led to the supposition that we were indebted for that evolution to the Hittites. Recent discoveries and excavations were likely to demonstrate that Anatolia possessed, just like Europe, a palaeolithic period, from which the mesolithic had evolved. Thus, from the remotest times, civilisation originated in Anatolia.

CAR DRIVER'S SENSE OF HUMOUR

Played Tricks On Police Officer

The possession of a peculiar sense of humour resulted in the appearance of Man Wing-sing, driver of car No. 3762, as defendant in a traffic summons before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistrate's yesterday.

Giving evidence, Detective Sub-Inspector W. N. Darkin, who was responsible for the summons, said at about 10.30 p.m. on October 6 he was, driving along Queen's Road East, going west. Almost opposite the Naval Yard he overtook a small saloon car. The road was clear at that point and he sounded his horn and started to try and pass. When his front wheel was almost level with the rear wheels of defendant's car, the latter swerved in front of him and he had to brake hard to avoid a collision. He was doing about 25 miles per hour at the time and defendant was probably going a little slower.

Immediately after, the passengers in the rear of the car turned round and laughed and for a moment defendant did the same. Then the rear blind was pulled down. Witness again tried to pass near the Military Officers' Mess and again defendant deliberately did the same thing. He eventually overtook the car near the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank and swung his own car in front of it and forced defendant to stop.

Defendant had a clear record since he took out a licence in December 1936, and in imposing a fine of $20. His Worship said he had begun his record with a very serious offence.

WEALTHY MAN ON ARMS CHARGE

Pistols Lay In Trunk For 21 Years

Eldest son of the late Mr. Cheung Pat-see, multi-millionaire Javanese merchant and one of the original benefactors of the Hong Kong University, and himself a wealthy man, Cheung Yuen, alias Cheung Kim-ho, aged 40, usually residing in Canton, appeared before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistrate's yesterday charged with possession without licence of one Mauser pistol, one Browning automatic, one E. Protector round pocket revolver and 282 rounds of various kinds of ammunition at No. 1 Wood Road.

Mr. M. W. Lo, defending, said the arms really belonged to the late Mr. Cheung, who had had a licence for them from the Hong Kong Government prior to his death in 1918. They had been kept in one of forty-odd trunks at the family residence in Wood Road and defendant did not know anything of them till about a week ago when a "boy" discovered them.

Defendant had ordered them to be cleaned and himself looked them in a safe, intending to consult his family lawyer, Messrs. Lo and Lo. In the meantime, however, the "boy" left after having been refused an increase in wages, and it was believed he had given information to police which

SEVEN-YEARS OLD TRAGEDY

Eurasian Charged

In a broken voice and on the verge of tears, E. A. C. Dias, a middle-aged Eurasian, charged with the murder of his three children and the attempted murder of his wife after an alleged assault in a house in Batu Road seven years ago, made a statement to Mr. W. J. Thorogood at the conclusion of the preliminary inquiry into his case in the first court, Kuala Lumpur, recently.

"I got up from my seat," said the accused who made his statement from the dock after he had been formally committed for trial on the four charges, "and walked into the kitchen straightaway, thinking of fire. The axe was close by. When I turned back, Mrs. Dias was behind me. I hit her then I hit the children, and walked down with the axe, called a ricksha and went to the police station."

had resulted in the seizure of the arms.

Mr. Lo emphasised that his client was a very respectable man and that there was no question whatever of the arms being used for any unlawful purpose or being kept negligently when they were discovered.

Sub-Inspector Whant said the "boy" had not given any information to the police, this having come through the usual channels. His Worship cautioned defendant and ordered the arms and ammunition to be confiscated.

A SUCCESSFUL CALAMITY

The latest in the succession of Warner Bros. hits, "A Successful Calamity" starring George Arliss, showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day with the celebrated star in the role of an American financier of international reputation who finds his millions keeping his family away from him because of the many things they permit his wife and children to do with their time.

Mary Astor, one of the screen's loveliest heroines, appears as the young wife of Mr. Arliss, whose "seeds of money" permits her to indulge in such luxuries as befriending and subsidizing young composers, redecorating the once comfortable mansion in modernistic fashion and giving musicals for dowagers and debutantes. The children in "A Successful Calamity" are portrayed by Evalyn Knapp and William Janney. Both of them are so occupied with idle pleasures that their father is almost a stranger to them.

Arliss contributes another of his faultless performances to "A Successful Calamity" his role of millionaire who tells his family that he has lost his fortune in order to bring them closer to him again, allowing him a wide range of action. The star reveals his ability as dramatic hero and comedian in this picture of modern life among the millionaires, where only butlers and maids are truly faithful to the head of the house. The supporting cast of "A Successful Calamity" includes such stage and screen favorites as Grant Mitchell, Fortunio Bonanova, David Torrence, Hardie Albright, Hale Hamilton, Oscar Apfel and Randolph Scott.

CONDEMNATION MAY HELP

MORALITY WILL BE MOBILISED

Japan Not Deaf

It is not easy to think or speak calmly about what is happening in China. When the League of Nations Advisory Committee for the Far East "solemnly condemns" the bombing of "open towns" by Japanese aircraft it speaks mildly. When it adds that this slaughter of innocent civilians has "aroused horror and indignation throughout the world," it stays well within fact. Mankind is pretty well united in detesting the sort of savagery lately exhibited in Spain and China. The question is how to translate its horror and indignation into effective protest, comments the "Christian Science Monitor."

This condemnation from Geneva may be one step. The power of the League is little respected in Tokyo but this committee, speaking with the voice of fifty-two nations, will be heard. And the world will ring with words endorsing the Geneva declaration. Morality will be mobilised. There are some signs that Japan is not deaf to what the world thinks. She has seemed surprised that peoples whose governments also have their plans for the bombing of non-combatants should protest. But she has begun to recognize that people may be shocked into emulating the actual use of weapons they have not yet tried. Recently Admiral Honda attempted to excuse Japanese bombing as aimed only at military objectives.

It is quite possible that more heed will be given to the blunt warning issued by the Russian Government that Japan would be held responsible for intentional or unintentional bombing—should any occur—of the Soviet embassy in Nanking. And serious, and widespread proposals in Britain and America for unofficial boycotts of Japan may well be understood in Tokyo.

Condemnation may help. But more than condemnation is needed, with an international as well as an individual wrongdoer. And as the "Christian Science Monitor" pointed out recently, the condemnation must extend to the kind of thinking which in every nation is prepared to resort to barbarism. If morality is to be mobilised it must be sure of its ground and be free from selfish and nationalistic motives. The demoralizing attack on the better elements of human thinking is not coming alone from one nation. And it must be met with a heart-searching determination not to resort, if there is any possible alternative, to the same hatreds and fears which are producing the slaughter of innocents in China.

300-MILE CRAWL

Indian Dies Of Exhaustion

Tragedy has overtaken the 300-mile "crawl" of an Indian father and his two sons, who set out from Mandisa, Sirmoor State, Punjab, to the holy city of Hardwar in the United Provinces, in fulfilment of a vow.

After seven days of crawling, one of the sons died of nervous exhaustion.

Earlier this year, when his sons were critically ill with typhoid fever, the father vowed that he would make a pilgrimage to Hardwar on his hands and knees if they recovered.

His sons were restored to health and the family set out, hoping to crawl five miles each day.

Undaunted by the death of his son, the father is still determined to complete the journey with his surviving son. He will, however, break the crawl for two days in order to attend his other son's funeral.

The father has been urged to abandon the journey, but he refuses to flinch from his sacred vow, lest he should incur the "displeasure of God."

YORKSHIREMEN DINE

Legend Of The Round Table

The picturesque legend of Richmond Cathedral in Yorkshire, which relates how King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table dined there ready to rise up in the hour of England's need, was referred to by His Excellency the Governor in a speech at the annual dinner of the Society of Yorkshiremen in Malaya recently.

His Excellency was the principal guest of honour. Others included Sir John and Lady Bagnall, Sir George Trimmer and the acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice a'Beckett and Mrs. a'Beckett Terrell.

His Excellency referred to the election of Sir George Trimmer as chairman of the St. George's Society, and said he was an ideal man for the role, for he was a dragon himself when he got going. CRICKET HONOURS

"I am to-night extolling a county," said His Excellency, "which by the aid of weather, the wicket and the umpires has robbed the county of my birth, Middlesex, of the county cricket championship, but as a Middlesex man and a good sportsman I congratulate you, as one non-bender to another."

He went on to say that he had lived in Yorkshire and even knew something of the habits of the natives, and he referred to the beauties of Yorkshire scenery. His Excellency said that there was a legend that under Richmond Abbey there lay King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, with the magic horn and the magic sword. When the horn is blown and the sword is drawn, King Arthur and his Knights will awaken and come to her peril. The man from Yorkshire to-day would, he knew, follow the King and his Knights.

"When we toast Yorkshire," he concluded, "we toast the chivalry of the yeomen of England."

Mr. A. B. Jordan, in reply, said it fell to him on behalf of the Yorkshire Society to express their pleasure to all their guests for helping to make the dinner the success it was. He specially thanked His Excellency for making such a charming speech.

NEW GOVERNOR OF HONG KONG

Worked With Sir Shenton Thomas

"Generally speaking, Britain is anxious to see peace restored and commerce have its proper way again. The present hostilities in China are only doing harm all round and the British policy is to do everything possible to secure the resumption of peace," said Sir Geoffrey Northcote, K.C.M.G., the new Governor of Hong Kong, when he arrived in Peking en route for Hong Kong, says the "Malaya Tribune."

Interviewed, he said, Britain viewed with regrets the events in the Far East.

He declined to discuss the situation however, and when questioned as regarding the likelihood of

ANNABELLA'S NEXT

Before she goes to America to make her debut for Twentieth Century-Fox, Annabella has one more picture to complete in this country—"Follow the Sun." This will soon be started by New World Productions, and Fukas and Romney Brent will be the leading men. Annabella's first Fox picture will not, by the way, mark her debut in American studios. Some years ago, she played in French versions of several Paramount films. Annabella got her first film role, at the age of eighteen, in "Napoleon." For some time after this, she played in minor roles, and it was not until René Clair starred her in "Le Million," his famous comedy about a sweepstake ticket, that she became famous outside her own country. Annabella is 25; married to Jean Murat—leader of the Spanish army in "La Kermesse Heroique." She has already appeared in two British pictures: "Wings of the Morning" and "Under the Red Robe."

IMPOSSIBLE TO PREPARE
PROGRAMME
At Brussels

Brussels, Nov. 2.
It is considered impossible to prepare a hard and fast programme for the Nine-Power Conference.
The first step will be to consider whether the Japanese are prepared to have any dealings with the conference, and also whether they will state on what conditions they are prepared to cease hostilities. It is also necessary to ascertain the terms on which the Chinese Government would be prepared to discuss peace.
When these factors are established, it will be possible to estimate the chances of a settlement.
At the public session to-morrow the principal delegates will make speeches, and will probably appeal for conciliation.
Japanese quarters state the Belgian Foreign Office asked the Japanese Embassy if it was proposed to send an observer to the conference. The Ambassador is stated to have replied that it was not proposed to have any contact with the conference.
The Italian delegate had a long interview with the Japanese Ambassador this evening.
The Japanese have denied a report circulating here that Japan would be willing to consider mediation by Britain and the United States.
Dr. Wellington Koo, chief Chinese delegate, in a broadcast to-day, declared that the principal fact of the situation is the flagrant violation by Japan of the Nine-Power Treaty, which not only concerned China, but the other signatories.

SILENCE MAINTAINED

Brussels, Nov. 2.
A few hours before the fifth session of the Nine Power Conference was opened at 11 a.m. on Wednesday in Brussels, the delegates had fully assembled, and whilst they were awaiting the first speaker in the person of Dr. Wellington Koo, China's Ambassador to France and Delegate to the Conference, much had happened in the way of mise en scene.
The arrival of the British Delegation, led by Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, drew large crowds to the North Station, but the real centre of interest for the crowds and the press representatives was the Hotel Metropole, which had been chosen as Headquarters for the British, American and Dutch Delegations. It was here too that Mr. Eden and Mr. Norman Davis, President Roosevelt's representative, had their first preliminary conference, for the purpose, it is understood, of arriving at an agreement with regard to the methods of procedure. Apparently a certain measure of agreement has already been reached between Mr. Norman Davis and M. Paul Spaak, the Belgian Minister of Foreign Affairs, who will open the Conference, and with some other delegations. Nevertheless, everyone who has anything to do with the Conference at all, prefers to remain silent, until the British attitude is known.
It is learned that the consultations which the Chinese Delegation had with M. Paul Spaak, were highly satisfactory. It is interesting to note that this Chinese Delegation comprises three Ambassadors, namely Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to France, Dr. Quo Tai Chi, Chinese Ambassador to Great Britain and Mr. Toi S. Tai, Chinese Ambassador to Belgium.
Concerning the British attitude it is felt that Britain is inclined towards a compromise solution, and one hears much of anti-British agitation in Japan, which causes great concern to British Business. It is stated that Britain wishes to avoid open enmity of Japan.
Probably for this reason, the statement issued at the eve of the conference by the Japanese Legation aroused much interest. This statement begins by reiterating the finality of Tokyo's reply to Belgium. Although the Japanese Envoy in this city states that he will be willing to supply the delegates with any information, there can be no question of Japan being dragged into the discussions.
As regards the question of sanctions, the Japanese spokesman has already stated that this is a weapon that strikes back at those using it. Should sanctions be applied then Japan would be compelled to blockade the entire Chi-

Reported Chinese Evacuation
Of Nantao

Shanghai, Nov. 3.
War operations along the Soochow Creek front has been brought almost to a complete standstill owing to the heavy rain, which is holding up the drive of the Japanese forces.
The main task of the Japanese troops at present is to keep the precarious foothold which they have gained in the past two days. All night long, isolated parties of Japanese soldiers numbering one to hundred each were kept busy warding off Chinese attacks and encircling movements.
Meanwhile, the Japanese reported that they are completing preparations to launch a frontal attack on Nantao.
Considerable interest is aroused by reports that large numbers of Chinese troops are evacuating Nantao and proceeding westward. If this is true, it means that the French Concession, where a larger part of Shanghai's population is now concentrated, will be spared the danger of stray shells which the northern and eastern districts have already experienced and the western area is now experiencing.
The Japanese ascribe the reported withdrawal to the fear of being cut off by Japanese troops advancing southward from Jessfield. Chinese circles, however, stoutly deny any withdrawal.
Meanwhile, a large fleet of landing sampans have been brought up the river by the Japanese. It is learnt that an even larger number is concentrated farther down the river. Built with flaring landing-bows and equipped with grappling irons it is believed that they may be brought up the Whangpoo for landing troops in Pootung.

The latest position as a result of elections in London boroughs yesterday is that Labour, with 53 net gains, has 732 seats, while Municipal Reform and other parties, with a net loss of 43, hold 565. London results so far denote few changes in the political control of Councils.

nese coast. Japan, it is stated, had adequate naval resources to carry out this blockade and make it effective, and it would mean the end of foreign "privileges" in China. It is expressed that Germany and Italy will continue to observe strict neutrality.
It is thought that the powers represented at the Conference are in no way inclined to hold identical views with regard to Japan, and this is sufficient ground for negating the possibility for arriving at a concrete decision.

NIANGTZEKWAN PASS
RECAPTURED

Shanghai, Nov. 3: It is officially announced here that Niangtze-kwan, strategic Great Wall pass on the Cheng-tai Railway known as the "gateway to Shansi," has been recaptured by the Chinese forces.
The troops under General Peng, a divisional commander, launched a quick and surprise attack on the Japanese forces which occupied the important "gateway" last week, and took control of the place yesterday. The Japanese were taken by complete surprise. It is reported, and fled in great confusion.
Pursuing the Japanese to the east, the Chinese forces also re-occupied Chukwan Pass, another important stronghold.
Contact has been established with the main body of Chinese forces at the eastern front and reinforcements are being sent to pursue the Japanese in an effort to drive the invaders out of Shansi province.

Upset Stomach
Cleared of Acid

Stomach disturbances such as digestive pain, gastritis, wind, heartburn, and feeling of revolt, are invariably the result of "acid formation" which, as a rule, gets worse and worse and may ultimately lead to serious illness. By counteracting excess acid and preventing its formation, BISMAG ("Bismarck" Magnesia) quickly puts right an upset stomach; pains disappear instantly, fermentation and wind are banished and soothing relief supersedes uncomfortable disturbance. Thousands have ended stomach trouble with BISMAG ("Bismarck" Magnesia)—you can do the same! Ask for BISMAG powder or tablets to-day and always see the oval sign on every pack.

CARE OF BOMBING TEACHERS

In order to provide for the care and maintenance of bombing teachers it has been decided to divide Great Britain into seven geographical areas, with parent units at Leuchars, Linton-upon-Ouse, Grantham, Mildenhall, Abingdon, Andover, and Eastchurch. At each of these a wireless operator mechanic, who is qualified in the care of the instruments, will be allowed on the establishment, and stations in the area, including those used by the Auxiliary Air Force and R.A.F. Volunteer Reserve, will apply direct to the parent unit for his assistance. The bombing teacher is a mechanical device whereby a large plate bearing a photograph of a suitable tract of country is passed over a projecting lens and reproduces on the floor of the floor of the training building an image of the ground. Aimers under training can practice bombing by selecting prominent features in this landscape as targets, using standard R.A.F. bomb sights.

MODERN PENTATHLON CONTEST

All ranks interested in the modern pentathlon competition are requested to write to the hon. secretary of the R.A.F. Committee, Flight Lieutenant J. C. Jordan, Home Aircraft Depot, Henlow, Beds. The competition, which is held in May each year, includes revolver shooting, swimming, "epee" fencing, riding, and cross-country running. An Air Force team entered for the first time in 1936, when it was placed third out of 11, and this year it came second out of eight. In the individual competition, out of an entry of 25, only four competitors received standard medals, two of whom belonged to the R.A.F.

BUSY DAY AT THE REGISTRY

Three weddings took place at the Registry of Marriages, Supreme Court yesterday, the first and the last being performed by Mr. W. Aneurin Jones, Deputy Registrar of Marriages, and the second by Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, Registrar of Marriages.

In the first wedding, Miss Wong Shut Sang, teacher, of No. 44 Jordan Road, daughter of the late Mr. Wong Yuek Po, became the bride of Mr. Look King, of No. 102 Caine Road, son of Mr. Look Poong Shan, retired merchant. The witnesses were the groom's father and Mr. T. M. Wong. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Gloucester Hotel.

In the second ceremony the contracting parties were Mr. Wilfred Marchack, of No. 3 Hill Road, third floor, son of Mr. Edward Marchack, retired merchant, and Miss Florence Yuk-Ching-Lui, of No. 57 Hill Road, ground floor, daughter of Mr. Lui Chung Hang, sub-manager of the Shanghai and Savings Bank Ltd. The witnesses were Messrs. Lui Hot Tung and David W. K. Au.

Miss Lee King Wal, of No. 37 Bonham Road, first floor, daughter of the late Mr. Lee Tai, was married to Mr. Ma Man Chow, book-keeper, of the Sincere Co. Ltd., in the third wedding, in the presence of Messrs. Lee Yook Tong and Leung Pak.

DONATIONS

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul acknowledges the receipt of the following gifts for the "Al Fresco Fete" on November 7th:

H. Ruttenjee and Son, 1 big case beer; Father F. R. Noval, 12 bottles French claret; J. D. Hutchison and Co., 18 dozen chocolates; L. Rondon and Co., 4 bot. "brandy."

HEALTH RETURNS

Three cases of enteric fever, three of dysentery, two of cerebrospinal fever, two of puerperal fever, and one of diphtheria were reported to the local Health Authorities for the 24 hours ended at midnight on Tuesday.

Tell me, doctor... You know what children are—always falling and cutting their knees and grazing their hands. I don't regard such things as trifles: I had a young brother who died of blood-poisoning. Tell me, is there no efficient antiseptic I can apply at once with perfect confidence?

'Dettol' is such an antiseptic—dangerous only to germs. It is a clean, pleasant fluid—non-poisonous and non-staining—highly efficient as a germ-killer. You can apply it freely (there are directions on every bottle). Remember, the smallest break in the skin is a wide-open gateway for the germs of septic infection. Disinfect cuts and scratches at once with Dettol! The way to prevent blood-poisoning is to kill the germs that cause it.

NEW BARBARIANS

Jenghis Khan boasted, when his Mongol hordes swept across the vast plains of Asia, that he could ride from China to Europe, from Peking to the walls of Pest, without his horse stumbling. Every town and city in his path has been laid waste. When Merv was taken it was transformed into a desert and 700,000 people were killed. But it was said that many had escaped by hiding among the corpses so when Nishapur was captured shortly afterwards it was ordered that all the inhabitants should have their heads cut off!

Such was the way of the old barbarians. To-day the Japanese, having learnt in the course of 700 years some new methods of killing, are applying them to a similar purpose in their war of unprovoked aggression with China. There are now approximately 470,000,000 people living in China, which is giving them considerable scope for this exercise. Jenghis Khan, the great Mongol, and Alaric, the Hun, would no doubt envy the opportunity presented to these new barbarians.

But this, of course, is to do the Japanese a gross injustice. They hope (have they not told us so?) that when a few hundred thousand Chinese have been slain the rest will be glad to offer their sincere co-operation in the more difficult task of living! In truth, the Japanese hope that by bombing the great Chinese cities and their inhabitants into gory pulp and dust they will destroy the centres of Governmental authority and weaken the morale of the civilian population. It is the doctrine now given the high-sounding title of "totalitarian war," but for all that it would still be recognised by the Tartars, the Mongols, the Goths, and the Huns.

The warning is clear. Who can doubt that if war were to break out in Europe the same things which are now happening in Canton and Nanking would happen in London, Paris, and Berlin? Who can doubt that, if necessary, every European nation will follow the Japanese back to barbarism? No one, not even the most desperate adventurer, the most discontented billy, can read of these things without a shudder of revulsion.

That the world has been shocked out of its dangerous complacency is certain. The Governments of Britain, France, Russia and the United States have already protested.

The United States has addressed a formal Note to Japan in which the following sage words occur:

This Government holds the view that any general bombing in the extensive area in which resides a large population engaged in peaceful pursuits is unwarranted and contrary to the principles of law and humanity. Moreover, there can be no assurance that even in areas to which American nationals and non-combatants might withdraw they would be secure.

The Japanese causes are worthless even as excuses. Not only the Great Powers but the small ones also are roused, as is shown by their Press. If Madrid and Guernica were the first advice, Nanking and Canton are the final warnings.

It is not, however, enough to exclaim in horror; it should be possible to harness this lively emotion to very practical ends. It is hard to believe that the Great Powers have completely and irrevocably lost their influence over Japan, for she cannot afford to antagonise the whole world at once. There is reason for believing that the Japanese were somewhat perturbed at the refusal of foreign Powers to remove their warships and Embassies from Nanking.

It certainly is not true that Japan cares nothing for world opinion, for she has recently dispatched envoys to argue her case in all the chief countries; these envoys will make little headway while the bombs fall on Canton. One may hope, too, though with little confidence, that the impression of these events in the West, this last European shudder, will have some effect on individual destinies.

In time the world may even come to realise that the abolition of the bomber and international control of aircraft are not only desirable but necessary if we are to avoid a new Dark Age.

Meanwhile, something of a practical nature must be done to curb, if not to prohibit, the foul extravagances of these new barbarians—the Japanese.

"L.M.S." FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES

The London Missionary Society announced at a conference held in Livingstone Hall, Westminster, recently, with Lord Arnold in the chair, that, unless an accumulated deficit of £76,000 could be wiped out and the income from United Kingdom sources increased from £129,000 to £144,000 a year, one of its six major fields of activity overseas must go. The six fields are India, China, Africa, Madagascar, the South Seas, and Papua.

To meet the financial crisis that has overtaken the society the directors have severely economized by leaving posts overseas unfilled as these fall vacant (except in the case of doctors and nurses sent to China) and by the reduction of staff salaries at

FINGERPRINTS
DON'T LIEBut Chan Sing Does Not Think So!

Chan Sing, unemployed, charged before Mr. K. Keen at the Kowloon Magistracy on remand yesterday for begging and returning from banishment before his term had expired, was firmly convinced that he had no previous convictions.

"Just as faces may look alike, so do fingerprints," Chan opined from the dock. It was his third appearance on remand. Twice he denied he had been previously convicted, and yesterday he stood firm by his denial.

Sergeant T. G. Mackay, of the Police Fingerprint Bureau, testified to Chan's fingerprints.

Chan, who pleaded guilty to begging, denied that he had ever set foot in a police station in the Colony before.

Chan was fined $10 or, in default, one month's hard labour on the begging charge and an additional three months' imprisonment for breach of the Deportation Ordinance.

As Chan was led away from the dock he mumbled and was still convinced that he had a clear record.

home and abroad. A big effort is now being made to increase the income and over £27,000 has so far been promised towards wiping off the deficit, and a "Wide Open Doors" campaign has been launched in Britain, during which teams of speakers will address some 4,000 meetings. Already some of the churches in Africa and Papua, though poor, have increased their contributions.

In the past the society has had the generous help of a number of wealthy men, most of whom are now dead. The directors hope to win the support now of a new generation of younger people in order to maintain the work that they believe to be vital to the progress of Christianity.

The society was founded in 1795. On its pioneer roll are the names of Robert Moffat, the first missionary to Bechuanaland; David Livingstone, who opened up the Central African field; Robert Morrison, who compiled the earliest Anglo-Chinese dictionary; William Lockhart, the first medical missionary to China; John Williams, the martyr missionary who explored the South Seas; and James Chalmers, who was killed by cannibals in Papua in 1901.

Though in the course of development the "L.M.S." has become the society of the Congregational Churches of Great Britain, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, the directors point out that it is still interdenominational in character. Among its missionaries and officers are workers from the Church of England, the Church of Scotland, the Methodist Church, the Society of Friends, Presbyterians, and the Salvation Army. Identified with its work abroad are 263 missionaries, 7,677 native preachers, 602,452 members and adherents, and 129,640 Sunday school scholars.

There are 120,000 students in the colleges and high schools which it supports or unites with others in supporting, and it maintains 40 hospitals and dispensaries that deal with over 1,000 patients a day.

JAPAN REVIEW

Diet Discusses China Issues

The House of Representatives met recently. At the outset, Mr. Koyama, the President, reported to the House that he had repaired to the Palace and submitted to the Throne the House's Reply to the Imperial Edict opening the Diet session and that the Emperor had again granted a gracious Message appreciating the House's mark of respect.

The draft resolution expressing the House's gratitude to the army and naval officers and men at the front was explained by Mr. Shimada, a Selyukal leader, and approved unanimously.

As in the other House, General Sugiyama and Admiral Yonai thanked the House on behalf of the Army and the Navy respectively.

The House entered on the Order of the Day and nine Bills introduced by the Government were explained by Mr. Kaya, the Finance Minister, Count Arima, Minister of Agriculture and Forestry, Mr. Yoshino, Minister of Commerce and Industry, and Mr. Nagai, Minister of Communications. These Bills were: The Bill for the issue of bonds to meet the war expenditure, one relative to the creation of the temporary war expenditure special account, one providing for the exemption of soldiers and sailors from taxation and for the postponement of the collection of taxes from them, one relative to the adjustment of funds, the Foreign Exchange Control Revision Bill, the Bill concerning emergency measures relative to rice, the Temporary Fertilizer Distribution Control Bill, the Bill for emergency measures regarding imports and exports, and the Temporary Shipping Control Bill.

Japan's True Intentions

Mr. Sakurazuchi (Minseto), interpellating, stressed the necessity of making Japan's true intentions perfectly clear to China and third Powers, and asked the Government's view on the point. He also suggested that the Government should lay down a future financial programme on the assumption that the present conflict will be a prolonged affair. The interpellator admitted that in the existing circumstances it is inevitable that recourse should be had to loan issues in providing the funds, but asked what plans the Government has in mind regarding the problem of securing their absorption.

Mr. Sakurazuchi also expressed apprehension lest the execution of the new Supplementary Budget should force up prices. He further suggested that the Government should act in close unison with private interests in the matter of improving the state of international accounts.

Prince Konoe, the Premier, in reply, said that some Western Powers fail to understand Japan's true intentions in the present conflict. The Government is considering effectual methods of making Japan's point of view clear to these Powers, the Premier said.

Mr. Kaya, Minister of Finance, also replying, assured the interpellator that the Government is adequately determined and prepared to meet the situation, no matter how it may develop hereafter, though he said he is not in a position to describe at present what constitutes this determination and preparedness.

A Point Of View

[The Editor, The "Hong Kong Daily Press,"]

Dear Sir—I note you write editorially every morning re—this "mad Sino-Japanese undeclared war," which I must admit gives interesting reading, but frankly, I should say it is quite futile to go anti-Japanese, as eventually that "militaristically maniacal nation," will come out superior over China. The war has run now for almost three months, and yet nothing has been done to stop it. The major nations of the world, friends of China at peace-time, have hesitated, and now after several appeals, have decided to come forth to "discuss" what should be done.

Remember the Italian Ethiopian war? Well, it looks like things will turn up to a similar end, except that of-course China will not be "enveloped" entirely. She is quite strong herself, Japan could not "seize" China, not by a long shot, but taking territories right to the Yangtze is not improbable, which in my "humble" opinion will finally be the boundary between China and the New Japan.

The Conference (prompted by President Roosevelt's speech at Chicago last month), is doomed, yes, you said it, doomed to failure. What can they do? Boycott Japan? Italy, Germany and little Portugal will supply oil, munitions, etc. etc. necessary, which probably would be purchased from the U.S.A., France, Britain and even Russia. It'll be the case of buying from Peter and selling to Paul. If the U.S.A., France, Britain and Russia go into agreement to boycott, and refuse to sell or buy from Japan, as far as the nations are concerned, all is well, but what about the people that comprise the nation? I believe they will have something to do about it? What happened to the "embargo" during the Italian conquest? Frankly, it looks like China is playing the scapegoat this time, and is taking Ethiopia's place. I'm not a politician or a military expert. I'm merely using common-sense.

England and France are too tied up with the Mediterranean troubles. The only possible fear Japan has, is a possible Russian attack, but then the deal with Russia before, outside of that, she is practically safe.

Japan is wise, she chooses these tough times, to deal with China, the boy next door, who has been troubling her, gaining friendship of some bigger associates, threatening her very existence. Japan fought back in 1932 to get a foothold so to say, but that was not sufficient. The little boy is growing—result: this war.

Russia prompted the Spanish Revolution—turns Spain Red. Franco comes in, through help from some foreign powers—they are having it out—but Franco will win. A red Spain is bad medicine for Italy and Germany—hence the Italian and German volunteers in the Franco Army. Britain fears the possibility of the Mediterranean route being closed for her—she has to see that she gets a place in the sun in the Mediterranean. France does not feel comfortable with an enemy growing stronger day by day at her back door. So that's that.

So you see, the European nations are too much tied up with their own affairs. (P.S. Why didn't Japan start this war with China earlier?). Man to man, what can the alleged friends do for China? What will they do?

I'm neutral. I'm not anti-Chinese nor pro-Japanese, but I know, feel and believe what I just wrote above will happen. I may be totally "off the track"—that is, I may.

China has recently proved quite efficient (according to Press reports, which probably has been heavily sugared), but her strength is ebbing. Three months is pretty long to struggle. China says she'll fight to the last man, last bullet. I suppose Germany said that way back in 1914.

I believe I have written enough. I hope I haven't started anything "disastrous," but I know for sure. I'll have a lot of correspondents on my neck.

Just sit down, relax and digest what I wrote, if you think I'm wrong, let me know. I'm interested. But as I said I might be right.

Frank Madeira.

CHINA'S MOMENTOUS PROBLEMS

CHINA'S PROBLEMS

Mr. Norman Davis said the hostilities in the Far East was the serious concern not only of China and Japan but to the entire world. The day had long since passed when the effects of armed conflict were confined to participants. Within a few generations Japan had undergone great transformation and both the Occident and Orient were impressed by the admirable achievements effected by the Japanese people. During the present generation China has been struggling with momentous problems in her transition from the old to a new regime and the world observed her efforts with sympathetic interest. Unfortunately China and Japan resorted to hostilities which were detrimentally affecting the whole world.

Mr. Davis said that the United States had not come to the Conference with expectations of working miracles but with the intention of appealing to reason. "We expect to join with other nations urging upon Japan and China that they resort to peaceful processes. We believe that Sino-Japanese co-operation is essential in the best interests of these two countries and for peace throughout the world. We believe that such co-operation must be developed by friendship, fair play and reciprocal confidence.

MR. EDEN

The British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden said: "The wise and lucid speech by Mr. Norman Davis has so well defined our task that I have little to add. I am in full agreement with everything he has said. We much regret the absence of one of the parties which must hamper our efforts for peace but we cannot lessen our endeavours on that account. If we are told that our prospects of achieving our object are slender that is no reason to shrink our duty to ourselves and to the world. If we are afraid to face possible failure we are not deserving of success. We hope that with the least possible delay the Conference will resolve itself into a working committee to get to grips with its task.

GREAT BRITAIN PROMISES FULL
COLLABORATIONITALY MUST MAKE CERTAIN
RESERVATIONS

PEACE IS VITAL

Mr. Eden declared: "The maintenance of peace is of vital interest to all countries. War contagion may spread and anyway the inevitable loss of national prosperity adversely affects all countries. It is natural that we Powers who are directly interested in the Far East should consult together even if no Treaty basis exists, to ascertain if we can assist in bringing about the early cessation of hostilities and restoration of stable conditions. Actually, however, there is a Treaty as well as a moral obligation. None of us are disinterested spectators but bound as signatories of an international instrument."

Mr. Eden concluded: "Britain is prepared to offer the fullest collaboration to promote the success of the Conference. The very difficulty of the enterprise should stimulate our energies."

END TO MASSACRES

M. Delbos, French Foreign Minister, followed Mr. Eden and emphasized the imperative duty to end the conflict because one could not remain unmoved at the atrocities which were piling up in the Far East. "We should be accomplices if we sought no end to the massacres which have revolted the heart and intellect. Nobody outside sees any danger of an extension in the conflict. Moreover, we are doing the duty of the solidarity of justice because all interested are safeguarding the rules upon which civilisation depends," said M. Delbos.

ITALY'S VIEWS
The Italian delegate, Count Marescotti, said that Italy must make certain reservations. All the Conference had to do was to bring the two parties together and their work was then finished. He said that however amiable the methods and means employed, the Conference will only end in platonic resolutions and fresh proof of sterility if the realities of the situation were not taken with account.

The Conference rose at 1 p.m. and will be reconvened at 4.30 p.m. It is expected that the Chinese delegate will speak this afternoon.

RESUMED

Continuing his evidence before Mr. K. Keen (Coroner) and a jury at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday afternoon, at the resumed hearing of the inquest into the death of Chan Sun, Wong Lap, stonecutter, gave further details of the alleged assault by police officers in a cubicle, and while on the way to the station, and at the Shumshu Police Station.

It will be recalled that at Tuesday's hearing, medical evidence showed that Chan Sun had died from rupture of the spleen. He also had three fractured ribs.

Yesterday afternoon Wong Lap in answer to the Crown Solicitor, (Mr. John Whyatt) said that after leaving his hut he went to Chan Sun's residence at No. 390 Castle Peak accompanied by Chan Sun himself, a man in black pongee silk clothing who was identified as district watchman No. 38, and three others.

He alleged that both deceased and he were confined in the rear cubicle of the former's house and were assaulted by the district watchman and a man called Tse Sung.

Mr. Whyatt: Where was Chan Sun when you were being beaten up in the cubicle?—He was also in the cubicle.

NIGHT BOAT IN COLLISIONTHICK FOG NEAR BOLOGNE

London, Nov. 3. The Southern Railway night boat from Bologne to Folkestone, the s.s. Maid of Orleans, with 230 passengers was in collision in a thick fog last night with a French fishing boat just outside Bologne.

The fishing boat was badly holed and sank. The nine men on board were saved by another fishing boat. The "Maid of Orleans" was going very slowly at the time. The fog persisted throughout the night and another Channel steamer, the "Maid of Kent" was ten hours late in reaching Bologne.—British Wireless Service.

JAPANESE WARSHIPS MOVE

Canton, Nov. 3. Japanese warships, cruising around Bias Bay, have departed, according to a military report received here to-day.

It is revealed that there are only about five or six Japanese men-of-war are still hovering off the delta of the Pearl River, hence the situation here is calm and quiet.

Some of the Japanese warships anchoring off the coast of South Fukien have also moved eastward yesterday afternoon. Their destination is not known and meanwhile the military authorities has ordered the shore garrisons to take due precautions.—International News Agency.

JAPANESE REPEAT ROUTINE
BOMBING OF C.-K. R.

Canton, Nov. 3. Repeating their routine bombing of the Canton-Kowloon Railway, Japanese aircraft raided Pingwu, Shekku, Tintongwai stations.

At 8.10 a.m. three Japanese planes dropped three bombs at Pingwu station, damaging a section of the track.

At 2.40 p.m. three other planes reconnoitred over Shekku and Tintongwai and unloaded six bombs on the track between the two stations.—Central News.

JAPANESE
TURN DOWN
PROPOSALFor Neutral Zone
In Shanghai

Shanghai, Nov. 3. The High Command of the Japanese military here have flatly turned down the proposal for the creation of a neutral zone in the south of Shanghai comprising Nantao and Pootung.

The proposal was suggested to the Japanese following yesterday's conference held aboard the U.S.S. Augusta with the presence of the British, American and French Commander-in-Chief of the fleets, Rear-Admiral Honda representing the Imperial Japanese Navy and the Japanese Consul-General Mr. Okamoto.

The Japanese report that the scheme was suggested by the Chinese in order to save Nantao and Pootung is absolutely without foundation as the plan was originally devised by the French consular body with the view to avoid the French Concession and the International Settlement on account of the proximity of these places with the fighting area around Nantao and Pootung from turning into another no man's land.

A Chinese military spokesman officially denied the report that Chinese troops had withdrawn from Nantao. He declared that Chinese soldiers are stationing there as usual and that the rumour of evacuation might have originated from the fact that several fresh units from Nanking have taken up the garrison post there to relieve the Nantao defenders.—International News Agency.

2,000 CHINESE RETURN FROM
FORMOSA

Foochow, Nov. 3. About 2,000 overseas Chinese evacuated from Formosa on account of the Sino-Japanese conflict arrived here on November 1 aboard a British steamer.

According to the evacuees, Formosa is strengthening its air defence for fear of attacks by Chinese planes.—Central News.

VARIETY
CONCERTFine Programme At St. Andrew's.

An entertaining variety concert was held at St. Andrew's Club last night. There was a large audience which fully appreciated the efforts of those who took part in the programme.

Mr. A. Gwyther opened the programme with two baritone solos "The Longshoreman" (Chesham) and "Captain Mac" (Sanderson). The audience was so appreciative of Mr. Gwyther's singing that he was forced to respond with a third item, "Sea Waves." Mr. Rupert Baldwin accompanied.

Muriel Portallion next appeared on the stage and rendered two numbers "Melisande in the Wood" (A. Goepz) and "My Prayer" (Squire). Her beautiful contralto voice was heard to great advantage and she received a big hand. Mrs. B. Shand, L.R.A.M., was the accompanist.

A humorous sketch entitled "Accidents Will Happen" was next staged which kept the house in roars of laughter. Those performing were Mrs. J. R. Higgs, Rita Cole, H. R. Barry, Barbara Stevens and C. R. Pellatt.

Two songs by Mr. J. P. Booth, which were heartily applauded, brought the first part of the programme to a close.

Miss Anne Winter opened the second half of the programme with two well-rendered songs "Love is Calling" and "Dream-a-day Jill." She was accompanied by Mrs. Shand.

A musical extravaganza of the sea entitled "Naughty-Qality" brought an excellent programme to a close.

The Governor of Trinidad stated that a company of British troops will be stationed on the island as an assurance that the differences between employers and employees in the oilfields will be settled without disturbances, says a "Reuter's Bulletin Service" message from Port of Spain.

DEVELOPMENT OF AIR
DEFENCESPlan For Increased
Production Success

London, Nov. 3.

Referring to the development of air defences in a speech last night, Lord Swinton, Air Minister, said that the British aircraft industry had always been second to none in design. Until now it had never had a real and great opportunity of production. In time of war the motor industry would have to concentrate the greater part of its activities on aircraft production. Already, within a year, the plan for increased production had proved a complete success. They not only had these great factories established but are turning out the most complicated engines that the world could produce.—British Wireless Service.

MAGISTRATE ARRESTED

Foochow, Nov. 3: Kang Han, magistrate of Chinnmen Island, has been arrested by order of the Fukien Provincial Government on charge of deserting his post upon the recent invasion of the Japanese. He is being escorted to Foochow to face trial.—Central News.

IMPERIAL

The time-table will continue to allow for a 5-day schedule between Hong Kong and London, and 5 days between London and Brisbane. Arrival at these two and all intermediate ports will therefore be one day later than at present.

Eastbound: Eastbound services will continue to arrive in Hong Kong on Tuesdays except for the service due on the 9th instant, which has been scheduled to arrive on Wednesday, the 10th instant. The services will then revert to the normal time-table whereby they are due to arrive Hong Kong at noon each Tuesday.

The above alterations to existing schedules have been brought about by the introduction of the Empire flying-boat on the London-Australia route as far as Karachi. These flying-boats are temporarily operating according to the existing land-plane schedule on that section as only one of the two services per week in each direction has so far been converted.

It will be seen that from the week commencing Tuesday, the 18th November, residents will have one extra day in which to answer Air Mail correspondence.

The Imperial Airways flying-boat "Satyrus" arrived at Singapore on the 29th October, having completed a survey of the flying-boat route between Karachi and that port with a view to its eventual operation by the Empire Class flying-boat.

Repatriation Question
In Lords

London, Nov. 3. The repatriation of Basque children was the text of a question in the House of Lords in which a member stated that a petition was received from the parents of the children requesting their return. It is added that five hundred should be sent back immediately, preferably in a British warship.

The Earl of Listowel, who is a member of the Basque Children Committee, said that the children will be returned to their parents as soon as arrangements have been completed and added that there will be no unnecessary delay.

The Earl of Munster, speaking for the Government said that at the Basque Children Committee were solely responsible for the repatriation, this should be done by other means than by a British warship.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

HONG KONG RIFLE ASSOCIATION

537 Individual Full Members SMALL-BORE INTER-COLONIAL MATCH

A changing light and a constantly varying wind made shooting conditions somewhat difficult yesterday afternoon for those members who attended the usual mid-week Spoon and Practice Shoot of the Hong Kong Rifle Association. In spite of these adverse factors, however, there were several scores of 90 and over, made with the "1914" rifle, although the scoring with the S.R. (a) weapon was very low, the highest aggregate being 78, against an average of well over 80.

Last week in these columns it was stated that it was expected during the present month, that the individual full membership would pass the 500 figure. Actually this occurred on the last day of last month, and a large number of additional names have been received since then. The result is that to-day the individual full membership stands at 537, excluding those members who have left the Association on change of station, etc., while the number of those who have been enrolled in this class of membership since the formation of the Association 21 years ago is 732.

On Sunday last, thanks to the kindness of Mr. C. Watson, the energetic Honorary Secretary of the newly-formed small-bore section of the Association and his Sub-Committee, Hong Kong for the first time took part in the Inter-Colonial small-bore Match, and in spite of the disadvantages inherent upon lack of practice and of proper match weapons, the team aggregate as will be seen below, can, with justice, be regarded as a very worthy effort. With more practice, and proper rifles, there is no doubt that the Colony should do really well, and the assistance which has been so freely and generously afforded by all units possessing a miniature range should result in facilities being available for practice on several

Mr. Leland Cutler is a prominent business man in the United States. He is Secretary of the Trustee Board of Stanford University.

HE SMUGGLED WOLFRAM

The nominal fine of $5 was imposed on Ko Kai, 33, when he pleaded guilty before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday to importing unmanifested cargo in the shape of a quantity of wolfram ore into the Colony on the s.s. Sui Tai on November 2.

Senior Revenue Officer A. O. Grimmitt said the case was not being pressed. The man was carrying the ore tied round his legs, as he was afraid of the gangs who had been making a specialty of attacking wolfram ore carriers in that district and who were giving the police a lot of trouble. Actually by concealing the ore defendant was probably saving trouble for the police.

LARCENY OF ORE

Chan Sum, 24, unemployed, was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday when he admitted larceny of a quantity of wolfram ore from Wong Shun, watchman, on the s.s. Tai Shan at the Canton wharf on November 2. He had a previous conviction.

NO STAMPS ON RECEIPT

Two shop keepers whose folds had tried to "save a few cents from the revenue," appeared before Mr. K. Keen at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday on a summons for failing to affix appropriate stamps on two receipts.

The shop keepers were Yu Hing, of No. 530, Castle Peak Road and Mrs. Chan Ho, of Ta Tit Street.

Detective Sergeant J. G. Whitcroft, attached to the Treasury, explained that receipts for sums of $20 or under needed no stamps, but over that sum, a ten cent stamp had to be affixed to each receipt. In the first defendant's case, his fold made out two receipts, for $15 and $10.43 respectively, and put different dates on them, thus saving 10 cents, which he kept. Second defendant's fold did this on three occasions with sums over $20. Both folds had since been discharged, but defendants had been summoned because they were responsible and should have exercised proper supervision over the accounts.

First defendant was fined $20 while second was fined $15 on each count.

LOCAL ESTATE

Mohamed Husan Bux, clerk, late of No. 13 Morrison Hill Road, top floor, who died intestate at the Queen Mary Hospital on October 13, 1937, left local estate to the value of $2,300. Letters of administration to the estate of the deceased have been granted to Amina Bux, widow, of the same address.

BUSHIDO IS DEAD

But the Great War which strengthened the industrial foundations of Japan also laid the social and economic conditions which gave the death blow to the Samurai. In Europe the chivalry of the Middle Ages remained alive in the teachings of Christianity when Europe passed from feudalism to the revolutionary social and economic conditions of industrialization. As Professor Nitobe, who so ably set forth the lofty teachings of Bushido, said, "In Japan no religion was large enough to nourish it (Bushido); hence, when the mother institution, feudalism, was gone, Bushido, left an orphan, had to shift for itself." The religion of Shintoism with its narrow teachings of loyalty, patriotism, and worship of the Mikado, missed the vital spirit of Bushido—that quixotic mixture of mainly virtues tempered and softened by the feelings of compassion and mercy.

For what is the ceremony of Seppuku or Hara Kiri if not the height of quixotism surpassing that of Don Quixote charging the wind-mill? What saved the lofty spirit of the Samurai from the callousness of militarism was the same spirit which made the Samurai scorn the pursuit of mere money-making. He was above material considerations, and refused to yield to conceptions of opportunism. Shrewdness and cunning were never the virtues of the Samurai, for above all, he was the warrior embracing the ethical ideals of Confucius and Shintoism.

STRICT MORAL CODE

The spirit moving the Samurai of Japan is unique in history. Though matched by the Spartans in courage and stoicism, and equalled by the Knights of Medieval Europe in chivalry, the Samurai stood out by his observance of a strict moral code. The rough virtues of the soldier were tempered by the gentler virtues of justice, sincerity and veracity, politeness, and compassion, and ennobled by the delicate code of honour. A keen sense of right and wrong drove him to seek death, rather than live, when it was right to die. Nothing was more loathsome to him than underhand dealings and crooked undertakings.

Where is that spirit which moved Kenshin, when his enemy was cut off from his supply of salt, to order his subjects to supply it to his enemy, and utter the words, "I do not fight with salt, but with the sword?" Can the Japanese soldier in China to-day say with martial pride, "I do not fight with unarmed citizens and refugees, but with soldiers," or the Japanese nation as a whole proclaim to the world, "We are fighting for justice, because we are fighting to right a wrong?" The spirit of Bushido, which dares to do because it is right, is dead in the common people of Japan, for they are silent.

Only the militarists and politicians speak, and they speak with duplicity and insincerity, for with them the Machiavellian doctrine—the end justifies the means—has replaced the moral teachings of Bushido. The worship of Bushido has supplanted the worship of their ancestors. The hallucinations of power have overpowered their finer feelings or morality.

HONOUR BETRAYED

When the solemn promises of the Japanese statesmen to the League of Nations were flagrantly contradicted by the actions of the Japanese militarists in Manchuria and Shanghai, the personal honour of the statesmen and the national honour of Japan were betrayed. But honour is no longer held sacred. Japan cannot show the world, as she did during the stormy period of the Meiji Reform, the sincerity of her word in having men who are willing to vindicate their honour and the honour of their country by performing Hara Kiri in the tradition of the Samurai.

Sincerity and veracity are no longer esteemed, for they have given way to cold conceptions of policy. Politicians can lie, because it is propaganda, and propaganda is a necessary means towards the end of Japanese expansion. Militarists can deceive and relentlessly use unrestricted means of warfare so long as victory can be secured. What is the bombing and slaughter of civilians and the machine-gunning of helpless passengers in a train compared to the glory of the Japanese Army? For them, who are filled with the divine mission of world conquest, moral considerations need not exist; for morality is only for the weak. The moral teachings of Bushido are forgotten in the intoxication of future militaristic glory and expansion.

LUST OF POWER

While the bitter experiences of war and political revolutions have also imprinted the relentlessness and reality of might in the hearts of the different peoples of the world, the concept of power did not blind them to the ideals of a common and wider humanity than the nation. Passing in one stride from feudalism to industrialism, the Japanese people has had no time to get accustomed to the responsibility of national power. Like a savage suddenly possessed of great power, she has become arrogant, and drunk with the lust of power, she has neglected the moral teachings of her past.

But Japan is again behind the times as feudalistic Japan was amidst the industrialism of the West. The ideology of the civilized world is no longer tolerant with ideas of militaristic glory or selfish national expansion. The peoples of the world are awakening to the futility and inconsistency of war, and are straining to establish security and co-operation among nations.

JAPAN IS DOOMED

Unless the Japanese people realize the inconsistency of their present position, Japan is doomed, for she is working against the spirit of the times. The worldwide storm of indignation and condemnation of her actions in China should be a sufficient warning that the nations of the world will not stand in passive condemnation to see the peace machinery and treaties for collective security, built up after the efforts of half a century, demoralized or demolished at will.

The virtues of the Samurai have been killed by the progress of social evolution, but the lofty moral teachings of Bushido remain to inspire the Japanese people, before it is too late, to produce from the ashes of Bushido the new Samurai imbued with the higher ideals of a wider humanity than the nation. Only then will Japan, fallen into the rut of chauvinistic militarism, rise to a sane conception of the responsibility of her power as a nation among a family of nations, and awake to a sense of humanity.

FOUNTAIN PEN THIEVES

Two fountain pen thieves were brought before Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday. Both were youths and had already been in trouble before.

Cheung Su-wing, 17, who admitted larceny of a Parker fountain pen from Mr. Chien Fuk-ling, manager of the Woo Ping Steamship Company of Des Voeux Road, had been before His Worship as recently as October 28, when he was bound over. This bond of $20 was now enforced, with the alternative of one month's hard labour, and on the present charge another month's hard labour was imposed.

Leung Lu, 18, whose victim was a school-teacher, was given six weeks' hard labour in addition to having his bond of $25 enforced, with the alternative of a month in prison.

THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

It will be on how happiness and wisdom results from an attempt to understand people and the conditions among which we live that Mr. John S. Greenberg will speak to-night at the local Theosophical Society (113 Chater Road). The title of the talk will be "Understanding, the Light-bringer" the first individual talk in their worldwide Campaign for Understanding. All who are interested are welcome.

YOUNG MARRIED WOMAN CHARGED

A tearful 18-year old married woman named Tam Po appeared before Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of larceny by servant of money and clothing from No. 3 Aliviston Terrace, property of a school-teacher, Chu Sam-kwai. The girl, who pleaded that she had taken only $5 of a total of $80 allegedly stolen, was finally bound over in a personal bond for one year, after her husband and mother had refused to have anything to do with her.

BITTER REPLY TO MR. EDEN

Rome, Nov. 2.
A bitter reply to Mr. Anthony Eden's speech on the question of colonies was made in an official communique, which says that while Britain and France had divided the German colonial empire, Italy obtained derisive compensation and got from Britain 91,000 kilometres of territory of uncertain value at Jubaland and got from France 114,000 kilometres of genuine sand for which she gave the counterpart in Italian rights in Tunisia. "All this after the solemn colonial undertaking in the Pact in London when Britain and France desired Italian intervention in the war. Mr. Eden's arguments have no value. Italy may freely express a disinterested judgment on the just colonial aspirations of Germany because Italy took nothing from Germany."—Reuter.

DIRECT APPROACH IN SPAIN

London, Nov. 3.
The Non-Intervention Sub-Committee agreed to send to the Main Committee at the meeting to be held at 3.30 p.m. on Thursday a draft resolution considered at the last meeting with a recommendation that the Chairman be authorized to approach the two parties in Spain forthwith.—Reuter.

ARMY VOCATIONAL TRAINING

London, Nov. 2.
The government have decided to make vocational training available to the fullest practical extent to every eligible man in the British Army. Training will be given before the men leave colours. The intake of recruits in the London area for the regular Army in the last week was double that in the corresponding week last year.—British Wireless Service.

SOVIET AND NON-INTERVENTION

London, Nov. 2.
M. Maisky in a speech at the non-intervention sub-committee to-day said that the Soviet had not denounced the Non-Intervention Agreement, consequently it considered itself bound to it, to the same extent as every other coparticipant, but in the light of the events of the past fifteen months the Soviet believed that the policy of non-intervention had completely failed. This conviction was in no way modified by the statement of Signor Grandi on October 20, and instead of showing a sincere desire to come to a speedy settlement of the question of withdrawal, the Italian, German and Portuguese representatives used every pretext and created every possible obstacle in order to prevent such result.
M. Maisky intimated that the Soviet will abstain from voting on the controversial portions of the British plan.—Reuter.

LEAGUE COMMITTEE ON FAR EAST

Geneva, Nov. 2.
The Far Eastern Advisory Committee of the League of Nations has agreed to the Chairman's proposal to postpone the next meeting, originally fixed for November 7. The chairman has asked for suggestions from his colleagues before the end of the week. The Chinese delegate suggests the meeting should be held not later than November 21.—Reuter.

SLAUGHTER IN SPAIN

Madrid Nov. 3.
According to a communique issued by the Minister for Defence, 120 persons, including 50 children, were killed in Lerida by insurgent planes which machine-gunned the people in the streets of the town.—Reuter.

BRITISH TRADE CONDITIONS

All Industries Active

SLUMP TALK BEING EXAGGERATED

London, Nov. 2.

A Liberal amendment to the Address was debated in the House of Commons to-day and was moved by Major Gwynn Lloyd George. It stressed the importance of freeing international trade, securing an Anglo-American commercial agreement and preparing in advance for recession in trade activity.

Replying for the Government the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Oliver Stanley, said that not only did the general statistics of the country's economic position fail to indicate any imminence of a slump, but a more detailed analysis of the prospect of individual industries also gave no such sign.

In most industries there was no check or abatement in activity apparent. Iron and steel and engineering remained active at a high level. In trades such as motor production and many other industries goods were still going into consumption as rapidly as ever.

It was, of course, true that there were a few industries in which conditions were not so favourable as they appeared in the Spring, but the interesting fact to note was that if you analysed those industries and the reason for the slight setback they were experiencing it would be found that no common underlying factor existed such as would point to some general economic depression.

In warning the House against exaggeration of the effect of rearmament upon industry, Mr. Oliver Stanley observed that in so far as rearmament had effect upon production it should be remembered that they had not yet reached the peak of expenditure nor, therefore, the climax of whatever influence it might have on industry.

Regarding international trade, the Minister said that provided there was no worsening of the international situation he saw no reason to anticipate any serious reduction in the existing level of world trade, and if there was, as they all hoped, a substantial relaxation in international tension, they might look for further and sharp expansion in British exports.

He believed that the "slump talk" at the present time was due to falls on Wall Street, which were very different from those of 1929; beside, this time they were largely political, due to some extent to differences between Wall Street and the American administration which were no concern of others, and to some extent to the fear, perhaps exaggerated, of international complications.

He agreed that the freeing of foreign trade transcended in importance any other possible action that could be taken for an avoidance of a new economic depression. It was for that reason that the declared policy of the British Government was to play their part in any effort to reduce economic barriers.

In saying that it was only fair to make plain that the Government was not prepared to put itself in dock on the question of tariff policy. That was very far from the case. It was agreed in the Joint Currency Declaration of last year and at the League recently that the real and by far the most serious obstacles to international trade were not tariffs, however high, could be surmounted, but currency restriction and quotas. Great Britain had no currency controls and no quotas on import of industrial goods. Therefore, though anxious to co-operate in lowering barriers, there could be no question of the government's abandoning the tariff system adopted 5 years ago, which circumstances made inevitable and which has been amply justified.

Mr. Stanley went on to say that he believed great benefit would come from a trading agreement between Britain and the United States. The Government intended to see that an agreement, if made, would be fair to both sides and would really lead to an increase of trade between the two countries.

LIBERAL AMENDMENT REJECTED
London, Nov. 3.
The House of Commons adopted the Address in reply to the speech from the Throne with 160 division after rejecting by 383 votes to 146 the Liberal opposition amendment regretting that the Government were taking adequate steps to provide against possible diminution in employment. — Reuter.

BRITISH BUSINESS CONCERNED

Deplore Encroachment On Shanghai

BASIS FOR COMPENSATION

London, Nov. 2.

As a result of a meeting of the committee headed by Sir George Macdonough, representing the China Association, the Federation of British Industries and the Chambers of Commerce of Bradford, London and Manchester, two letters have been sent to Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary.

The first expresses the hope that opportunity will be taken at the Brussels Conference to consider, in conjunction with representatives of the other Powers, the principles concerned on which claims for compensation for damage arising from the Sino-Japanese hostilities should be based.

In the second letter, grave concern is expressed at the continued encroachment of the Japanese in the International Settlement at Shanghai, and their interference with the services of the Shanghai Municipal Council. It is suggested that these matters should also be discussed with representatives of the Powers concerned at the Brussels conference with the object of formulating a common policy with regard to the International Settlement, and avoiding exploitation of the position by either of the belligerent parties when hostilities cease. — Reuter.

PANAMA CANAL

Mexican Govt. Offers New Water-Rail Route

The possibility of a new and interesting development in the inter-coastal trade was seen in the announcement that the Mexican Government is beginning a campaign to interest Pacific and Atlantic coast-to-coast shippers in using the Isthmus of Tehuantepec Railroad.

The government admits that it could not hope to interest anything like a majority of lines regularly using the Panama Canal, but offers the water-rail route for certain types of shipments.

Primarily the idea is to interest operators in the ports of Salina Cruz on the Pacific and Puerto Mexico on the Gulf seaboard. Both harbours have declined since the advent of the Panama Canal but the government is confident that the current overflow of traffic at Panama will result in their revival.

SEAPORTS DREDGED
The two Mexican seaports have been recently dredged and work is underway to give them adequate dock facilities. It is estimated that there is a potential million tons of freight which might pass over this route annually.

The Tehuantepec route, incidentally, is the site proposed for a new canal which would compete with Panama. The plan is before Congress and has been condemned by experts because of its high cost and dubious value.

Inter-coastal operators were not enthusiastic about the proposed canal and have shown no great interest in the Tehuantepec water-rail route. It is pointed out that the two terminal ports have yet to be equipped and that any great volume would so congest the railroad that shipping would be slowed. Other arguments against the proposal include the cost of docking, discharging and loading on a different ship.

It is agreed, however, that small steamers, operating on regular schedule and carrying certain types of cargo, might profitably use the harbours and connecting railroad.

TAXES TO PAY FOR DUTCH DEFENCE

The Hague, Nov. 3.
In view of the rising defence costs the Government is seeking the sanction of new taxes, including increase in taxes on incomes, dividends and interest. — Reuter.

CHINA COAST TYPHOONS

A Period Of Anxiety

Regarding typhoons Walter Shephard writes in the "London Evening News" as follows:—

The terrible storm off Hong Kong on September 2 originated near the Philippine Islands, and whipped the sea into a fury along a track 500 miles long.

Captains begin to grow anxious when their barometers stand unduly high in a crystal-clear atmosphere, and look for the first signs of that long ocean swell which always precedes a typhoon.

Passengers often think these conditions spell fine weather, and only the sultry heat checks their cheerfulness. They watch the thin wisps of cirrus cloud growing into the great tangled rags that make such gorgeous garments for the setting sun. But after a day or so of torrid heat, the dark mass of the storm-cloud appears on the horizon, like a long black cliff and the rain and the barometer begin to fall together.

The captain now stands out upon the deck and faces the wind. He knows that the centre of the approaching storm lies about ten points to his right (in his Northern Hemisphere), and it is important to find out at once which part of the cyclone his ship will have to weather: the right hand side is the worst.

TUMULTUOUS SEA
If the ship is directly in the path of the centre of the cyclone, the order is "run with the wind on the starboard quarter," for the "eye" of the storm must be avoided at all costs. Here, calms alternate with violent bursts of wind which may come from any unexpected quarter and the sea is tumultuous, waves come at a ship with a force of a ton per square foot, steering-gear gets smashed, and small or badly ballasted vessels capsize.

Although a typhoon in the China Seas rarely travels at more than 24-m.p.h., the winds within its vortex may exceed 100 m.p.h. and exert a pressure of 40 lb per square foot. This means that a small vessel, only 200 feet long is submitted to buffets equivalent to 30 tons from the wind alone!

LABOUR STRIFE IN TRINIDAD

London, Nov. 2.

An announcement made by the Governor of Trinidad says, that any adjustment of the Colony's industrial mechanism which may become necessary must be slow and difficult, and it may be impossible of accomplishment unless problems are examined in an atmosphere of goodwill and quietness.

Experience of recent months leads the Government to apprehend that ill-disposed persons will continue in their attempts to provoke discord and strife.

The Government for its part is determined that there shall be no interference with the freedom of employers and employees to arrange their mutual relationships on constitutional lines as they may generally see fit, and as a precautionary measure to strengthen him in dealing with any threat to law and order the Government has asked that a company of Regular Troops may be despatched to Trinidad. His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have concurred. — British Wireless Service.

Visit Of British Metallurgists To The United States

The provisional programme of Metals to the United States, in October, 1938, has recently been issued. It is proposed that the meeting shall open in New York, on Monday, October 3, 1938, and that the "main programme shall last about three weeks from that date. Technical sessions of both Institutes will be held simultaneously in New York, on October 3 and 4, after which two groups will be formed and two alternative programmes prepared—the one for those primarily interested in ferrous metallurgy, and the other for those chiefly concerned with non-ferrous metallurgy. The places to be visited include Bethlehem, Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago. Members of either Institute interested in the meeting are requested to communicate with the secretary of the Iron and Steel Institute, 28, Victoria-street, London, S.W.1.
